"Sunday Closing Lowers Crime Report"

(Omaha Bee, Oct. 12)

"Closing saloons in Chicago on Sunday for the first time in forty-four years resulted in the day passing with the lowest crime record known to the police department, Chief of Police Healey announced today.

"Out of the 7,152 saloons in the city, only twenty-eight were found to have violated Mayor Thompson's closing order, which became effective yesterday.

"Chicago for the most part stayed at home. There was a marked increase, however, in the theatre attendance, the movies doing a rushing business. Saloons in the suburban districts, where the state closing law was not enforced, received an unusually brisk trade from automobile parties.

"Closing the saloons gave 20,000 saloon employees a day off, it was figured. Liquor interest pointed out that the saloon keepers collectively lost nearly $400,000 yesterday.

On October 23rd the saloon keepers attacking the legality of Sunday closing met defeat, when Judge Windes, in the circuit court after listening to long argument, refused to issue a temporary injunction restraining the city authorities from enforcing the closing rule. A similar petition had been denied by Judge Matchett. In announcing his decision the court said:

"From long experience in the criminal court, I have found that approximately 15 per cent of the crime for which persons are punished is the result, directly or indirectly, of drink, and I will not interfere with the mayor's action without a complete hearing upon the merits of the case."
